London is laughing: "You can imagine why—THE CRUISE OF THE KAWA has just reached Piccadilly and the Clubs. Even the sedate "Spectator" takes two pages to chuckle over this internationally uproarious South Sea burlesque. "The joy book of the year." "Right! Twelfth big printing already, and gaining momentum."

Perhaps you're not interested in knowing what fiction is attracting most attention in London. Right here a first novel by a chap named Swanton lists the reviewers as saying it "the magnum opus laudat." "THE WAY OF REVELATION" is the title. Just published here.

And that, Queen (as a dignitary's wife did NOT say) is only the half of it! Meaning that 1922 promises a great many opportunities to chat with you about really important and wondrous books. So do please remember to read our modest "column." G. P. P.

"Bantering Bandits"
The most original group of the production was "the band of bantering bandits," which introduced Miss Kathleen Crawford as Dick Turpin; Miss Margaret White as Captain Kidd; Miss Mary Sheffield as Tom Tom; the Piper's Son; Miss Alice Hall as Arsene Lupin; Miss Isabel Rockefeller as Robin Hood; Miss Harriet Pratt as the Jack of Hearts; Miss Louise Lane as Jean D'Alval; and Miss Dorothy Collins as Ali Baba.

The outstanding individual success of the evening may be credited to Henry Clapt Smith in his role "Ah Gwan Don Juan"; Van Henry Cartmell Jr. in a lyric recitative "Putt! Putt! Putt!"; Miss Marjorie Hughes and William Wilson in their duet and dance, "Wool! Wool! Wool!"; Miss Henry's sister Russell in her characterization of Monner Venetsky; Miss Marie Le Marche in her song, "Waiting"; and Mrs. Hampton Lynch in her solo, "Kora."
